The Association employs an executive secretary, two assistant secretaries, and necessary clerical assistance. The offices are located on the second floor of the Alumni House on the campus.

By maintaining the Alumni Office and by carrying on its other activities, the Alumni Association assumes that very important part of the University's administration having to do with alumni-college relations.

To further its work, it encourages the organization and activities of regional alumni chapters located in principal cities throughout the country. Currently numbering 82, these chapters serve the University by conducting a variety of programs and activities which are particularly helpful to alumni who live and work in these regions.

The Alumni Association sponsors Class Reunions and Homecoming to encourage alumni and their families to return to the campus. Each spring 10 classes combine their anniversary reunions. Homecoming is in the fall.

The Alumni Office maintains records of all alumni and affords a means of contact between them and the university. It assists in the coordination of the Alumni Career Mentor Program (ACMP), the Alumni Admissions Program (AAP), and events sponsored by the Office of Special Programs. The Alumni House is frequently the site of campus social events bringing together faculty, staff, students, Lexington residents, alumni, and other visitors.
